The Cold Weather.

The cold snap in Nevada and Utah continues to render the task of operating the Central Pacific in these States a most difficult one. All the trains are delayed by the cold, which has rendered the track very slippery and dangerous. J. A. Fillmore told a Call reporter Tuesday that in several instances engineers had been frozen out of their locomotives and compelled to abandon them on the side-tracks. The trouble with the cattle continues unabated. Large herds persist in straying on the track and have actually to be pushed off. The water-tanks have to be thawed out, thus adding another to the many causes of delay. Tuesday night seven Indian crews on the Oregon Division were compelled to lay off work on account of being severely frost-bitten.

Syrup of Figs

Is Nature's true laxative. It is the most easily taken, and the most effective remedy known to Cleanse the System when Bilious or Costive; to dispel Headaches, Colds, and Fevers; to Cure Habitual Constipation, Indigestion, Piles, etc. Manufactured only by the California Fig Syrup Company, San Francisco, Cal. For sale by George C. Thaxter, agent Carson.

"Vim."

Neil Burgess in his play of "Vim," caused a large audience last night to collapse with laughter. As Tryphena Puffy, Mr. Burgess is a complete host and is to the play itself what Hamlet is to the play of that name. There is nothing to prevent "Vim" being one of the season in this city.—Pittsburg Leader, January 8.

A DREADFUL CHARGE.

Max Grosman Arrested for Tampering with a Child.

Yesterday afternoon Max Grosman, a man who keeps a small clothing store in Corbett's block, was arrested on the charge of violating a child seven years old.

He seemed to understand but very little English when taken before Justice Witherell, and when the matter was explained to him shook his head and said he knew nothing about it. His bail was fixed at $5,000 and his examination set for Monday at 10 o'clock.

THE CHILD'S STATEMENT.

Mattie Annie Grey, the victim of the alleged outrage, is a seven-year-old daughter of John Grey, who is an engineer on the V. & T. She said that she went to the store of Grosman in the afternoon to make some purchases for her mother, when Grosman asked her into the back room, and committed the offense charged. On this information District Attorney Torreyson swore out a complaint and had Grosman arrested on the charge of rape.

A MEDICAL EXAMINATION.

Dr. Herrick stated to a reporter last evening that he had made a medical examination of the child, and that the evidence of an attempt to violate her was unmistakable.

GROSMAN'S STATEMENT.

In his cell in the City Prison last evening Grosman stated to an Appeal reporter that he knew nothing of the affair until he was arrested. He claimed that it was a conspiracy against him, and that he would be able to prove an alibi. The child had made purchases, but was never in the store more than a minute or two at a time. He believed that certain parties were behind the job, and that it would all be shown up in due time. He had no further statement to make, and closing he said: "If you prove this on me take me out and hang me in the street; a man who would do such a thing deserves it."

PUBLIC OPINION.

Does not seem strong against the accused, and there is a disposition to suspend judgment. It is claimed that when first questioned the child blamed another party, and then changed her account to Grosman. It is also urged that Grosman had a bill of $40 against Grey and called at the house on Friday for the money.

It is claimed that he would not have called for the money on the same afternoon that it is alleged he made the assault.

Grosman came to this city about three years ago as a peddler and located here. The officers say he has always been a good citizen and they seem disposed to believe him innocent. On all sides public judgment is suspended until the facts can come out.

ARTESIAN WELLS.

Their Availability in Cold Weather.

During the recent cold snap the owners of artesian wells were not troubled with frozen and bursted pipes, nor was their water supply cut off for an instant. While their neighbors were chasing all over town for water, and the plumbers were swarming in on them with tools and bills, the fortunate owners of artesian wells were calmly enjoying an unlimited supply of pure water, which came out of the pipe so warm that it smoked when it struck the frosty air, of 15° below zero. The artesian well people gave their neighbors all the water they wanted, and had plenty to spare.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our regular correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, Jan 13th. 1888.

The big speech of the session thus far was made by Senator Hale, of Maine, on Wednesday. He took up the history of this Administration on the Civil Service Reform issue. While the Senator was dispassionate and candid, he presented a most wonderful combination of facts that reflected anything but credit upon the claims of this Administration. I will not undertake a synopsis of his wonderful speech, but advise the reader to get a copy of it.

Mr. Mills, of Texas, the new Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, said today that he would have his tariff bill fully perfected and ready to report to the House within two weeks. Scores of members are preparing speeches for the occasion, and the country will have an abundance of literature on the subject this session.

The President's message, that was sent to the House five weeks ago, was not referred to its appropriate committee until yesterday, when it went to the Committee on Ways and Means by a motion of its own Chairman. It is said that a like incident never occurred before in the history of this Government.

The "Urgent" deficiency bill has been favorably reported, and of course will be speedily passed, which will enable the Government to pay up a portion of the indebtedness contracted beyond appropriations by his reform and economical administration. The boomerang is on the home stretch now, and will hit severely the sham pretenses of economy so prominent in the for ground of the last Congress. Democratic foresight don't reach very far into the future. The great object of the party seems to be to serve a temporary purpose, and patch up the neglect or evil effects of their legislation when necessity compels them to action. Thousands of honest and needy claimants, whose accounts have been fully adjudicated, have thus been kept out of their just dues for a whole year to bolster up the nefarious Democratic claim of economy.

In the Senate on Monday, Gov. Brown of Georgia read a speech two hours in length, advocating the repeal of all internal revenue taxation. It took his Democratic friends rather by surprise, for his position seriously antagonizes that taken by the President in his message on the tariff question, and which is generally sustained by his party. Senator Brown made strong points in his argument, to show that the "whisky ring" were in league with the Democratic party to keep up the internal taxation and distillation of liquors, and that they were gathering immense wealth by this discrimination in their favor, and characterized the "ring" as the most gigantic monopoly the country ever encountered. This brought Senator Beck, of Kentucky, to his feet, who said the Governor was apologizing for the Georgia moonshiners, and stabbing the administration. All this shows that from an unexpected quarter comes looming up an opposition to the President's programme, and some who claim powers akin to divination, see an entering wedge that will split the "solid South," if the issue is pressed too closely.

The bill to refund to the various States and Territories the amount collected by direct taxation in 1861, amounting to $20,000,000, gave rise to a good deal of discussion on Tuesday, and was finally laid aside without action. Nearly all of this was collected from the loyal States, and if the bill passes, will revert to them, which don't exactly suit some of our Southern brethren who want to reduce the surplus in another way.

The Harest of Combinations.

The delicacy of flavor with the efficacy of action has been attained in the famous California liquid of Figs. Its pleasant taste and beneficial effects have rendered it immensely popular. It cleanses the System, cures Costiveness, etc. For sale by George C. Thaxter, agent.

—It is claimed that over 1,000 persons were frozen to death in Dakota during the cold wave.
